THOUGHT.

Thought is deeper than all speech.
Feeling deeper than all thought.
Souls to souls can never teach
What unto themselves was taught.

We are spirits clad in veils;
Man by man was never seen;
All our deep communing fails
To remove the shadowy screen.

Heart to heart was never known;
Mind with mind did never meet;
We are columns left alone
Of a temple once complete.

Like the stars that gem the sky,
Far apart though seeming near,
In our light we scattered lie;
All is thus but starlight here.

What is social company
But a babbling summer stream?
What our wise philosophy
But the glancing of a dream?

Only when the sun of love
Melts the scattered stars of thought,
Only when we live above
What the dim-eyed world hath taught.

Only when our souls are fed
By the founts which gave them
birth,
And by inspiration led
Which they never drew from earth.

We, like parted drops of rain,
Swelling till they meet and run,
Shall be all absorbed again,
Melting, flowing into one.

MRS. M. D. MERRITT RETURNS FROM TEXAS.

Mrs. M. D. Merritt has returned from a delightful visit in Houston, Texas, where she was the guest of relatives and friends. Mrs. Merritt is exceptionally popular among a large number of local friends, who have missed her during her absence, and are gladly welcoming her back.

EAST HILL EUCRE WITH MRS. C. D. BEYER.

Mrs. C. D. Beyer entertained the members of the East Hill Eucare club yesterday afternoon. The first prize was won by Mrs. Wm. Mabrie, the second by Mrs. L. M. Davis, the lone hand by Mrs. Hoffman, and the consolation by Mrs. Wm. Roch. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. D. Cranston at the corner of Ninth avenue and Strong street.

SIX HAND EUCRE WITH MRS. MAX BEAR.

Mrs. Max Bear pleasantly entertained the members of the Six Hand Eucare club yesterday afternoon at her home on East Hill. Mrs. Sol Cahn having won the first prize, Mrs. Alex Friedman the second, and Mrs. Dave Hirsch the guest prize. Mrs. Sol Cahn will be the club's next hostess at her home on Palafox street.

MRS. SYDNEY GREENWOOD WAS HOSTESS.

Mrs. Sydney Greenwood was hostess yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club, having succeeded in making the afternoon a delightful one among her friends. Mrs. Merritt won the ace prize, Mrs. Jim White the consolation and lone hand, and Mrs. Fred Humphreys the booby. The next meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. Fred Humphreys on DeVillier street.

MARRIED LADIES' EUCRE CLUB WITH MRS. JOE ROTH.

The Married Ladies' Eucare club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joe Roth, a very pleasant meeting having been reported by the ladies in attendance. Mrs. Joe Roth won the first prize, a piece of drawn work, and Mrs. W. L. Roth the second, which was also a piece of linen drawn work. The next meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. Henry Blumer on East Government street.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOYED DELIGHTFUL BAY PARTY.

One of the pleasant evenings of the present season was enjoyed last night by the choir of St. Michael's church, about 30 of the young people, accompanied by chaperones, having gone over the bay, spending some time at the pavilion. All who attended reported an event which will long be remembered by those who were present.

ART GLASS CONTRACT OF FIRST M. E. CHURCH LET.

The art glass contract for the First Methodist church was let yesterday. The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company having been the successful bidder, six of the leading glass companies in the country having been in competition for the work. The subjects and designs of the windows of the new church will be among the most beautiful of those represented in southern cities, and some idea of the magnificence of the new edifice may be realized when it is stated that there are to be 37 of these windows in all, 12 of which are to be handsome memorial windows. The church is now assuming some of the beauty for which it will be characteristic when finally completed, and the Rev. Gavin and his people have every reason to feel proud indeed of the work as it has so far progressed.

SUMMARY OF WORK OF THE BROWNING CLUB.

The following splendid summary by Mr. H. C. Edgar, of the work done by the Browning Club, shows to excellent advantage what a really large amount of valuable study has taken place in a comparatively short time. At the conclusion of these eight sessions, devoted to a consideration of Browning's subject matter, it is natural to ask whether his work is marked by any consistent idea. This question may be answered in the affirmative. His work is intelligible taken all together as a whole. And this may be said of very few writers whose works are as important, wide-ranging or voluminous as his. Shakespeare, as being a purely dramatic author, shows no set purpose other than character study. Browning, as being only partly dramatic, could show himself behind his personages, and draw a continuous thread of eternal truth through the dissimilar scenes of human experience. Tennyson, on the other hand, neither had the one set purpose, nor was able to present his moral ideas in other than abstract terms. Yet Browning did not begin writing with a preconceived purpose to follow. It may be said that his purpose was followed unconsciously, presented variously, illustrated concretely, considered humanly, colored personally, and believed sincerely.

CIVIC LEAGUE TURNS OVER MONEY TO ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

When the tuberculosis exhibit was closed in Pensacola this spring, a balance on hand, amounting to $82.81 was given over to the Civic League ladies. Upon the advice of local physicians, however, who feel that the Associated Charities are in a much better position to enter the real fight against the disease than are the ladies with their manifold plans and duties entailed in the City Beautiful effort, the money has been handed over to that organization, which will have many cases come up before its officers, the cause of destitution being tuberculosis in some form. The step is considered a good one, and the money is sure to be well spent by his own will largely determines. Fourth, no condition is stationary; but individual and national philosophies and creeds, individual and national character, grow. So that the individual contributes not only to the temper of his times, but to the universal temper of all time. This long look down the future vista of cause and effect immeasurably increases our feeling of the individual's responsibility.

De Beidoe, of the London Browning Society, puts it thus: "No factors in our life (however unpromising they may appear) can be spared consistently with our development and progress."

To put these four propositions more briefly, they are—love, the worth of the individual, the mutual dependence of all men, and the law of growth. To put the four in one, they could be called "the personal and universal arguments for a spiritually ambitious life."

These doctrines have naturally affecting Browning's attitude towards many special issues. As to the relation of man to men, he is inevitably a liberal, a thorough-going democrat in art, politics and religion, with a republicanism past Shakespeare's, and nearly as sweeping as Shelley's. But his is a tolerant liberalism. He does not try to formulate opinions for other men. As to the relation of man to himself, he tries to stimulate, not instruct, him. He tries to rouse the individual will into action for any cause rather than none. And as to the relation of man to God, he is electric, unorthodox, the very opposite of fatalistic, and a staunch believer in the power, love and personality of God, and in the immortality of the soul.

Woman's Need

Awful Condition

"When I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Laura B. Tillotson, Suisun, Calif., "I was in an awful condition and scarcely saw a well day. But after the first bottle, I was convinced that Cardui was just what I needed. I am now taking the fourth bottle and am quite well. I would not give one spoonful of Cardui for a whole bottle of any other medicine."

If you're a woman, suffering from the ills peculiar to your sex, don't endure the pain and misery longer. Try Cardui at once and get well. Get a bottle and give it a fair test—convince yourself.

Cardui is a pure vegetable extract, containing no harmful drugs or ingredients. It is a medicine solely for women—a scientific remedy, specifically for the ills of your sex. It acts promptly, yet gently, on the delicate womanly organization, and has been found, in thousands of cases, to restore the sick organs to health.

Thousands of women, have found, like Mrs. Tillotson, that Cardui is just the medicine they need. Is there any reason why it will not help you, too? Don't delay—get Cardui at once and you will be glad you did.
